“Shine Lawyers has been actively involved in the Australian Lawyers Alliance since its inception in 1994. It is the premier association when it comes to providing both education and support to lawyers who protect the rights of individuals. All our lawyers and paralegals attend Lawyers Alliance conferences and events as there is no better way to develop the knowledge of the people who form the backbone of our firm. We owe a debt of gratitude to the Lawyers Alliance for its tireless work not only in protecting the rights of our clients but also looking after the law firms that act for them.

As a former National President of the Australian Lawyers Alliance, I cannot stress highly enough the value and importance of law firms being actively involved with this great organisation.”

Simon Morrison, Shine Lawyers (QLD)

“How does a small legal practice develop while remaining informed, professional and engaged with the pursuit of justice? Join the Australian Lawyers Alliance today and be part of the biggest ‘firm’ in Australia. It’s a no-brainer. ”

Ruth Carter, Ruth Carter & Associates (SA)

“At a time of intense national and international debate about matters such as industrial rights, the rights of victims and the accused, anti-terror laws, the death penalty and the integrity of the justice system, the Australian Lawyers Alliance has played a leading role not just in legal and professional circles but in public debate. It is an organisation that I am proud to be a member of, and which deserves your support.”

George Williams, Anthony Mason Professor, UNSW (NSW)

“I would encourage every Australian criminal lawyer to join the Australian Lawyers Alliance. The complex issues confronting us at present go beyond those of pure criminal law. I have benefited immensely from being a member.”
